Explanation of forms

The U1 form is a certificate showing periods of social insurance for the purpose of claiming unemployment benefit in another country covered by EC Regulations. This form has replaced the E301 form.

The E104 form is a certificate showing periods of social insurance for the purpose of claiming sickness/maternity or bereavement/death grant in another country covered by EC Regulations.

If you require the E104 as proof of health insurance in Ireland, you must have a link to the Irish social security system (through work or a social welfare payment) and/or a medical card from the HSE (details of start and end date of medical card(s) will be required).
